

Station WIL ~ What It's Like to Write a Haiku

In My Haiku Trail Journal

The title of my haiku is:

Yay! Now put your copyright stuff and notes here:

©

Copyright stuff has the © symbol first, then the year you wrote your haiku and finally your name. It tells the world this haiku belongs to you! Go ahead and add a few notes or sketches to the page while you're thinking your wonderful thoughts.

*Starshine
I saw a star shine
Big and bold and bright last night
I gave it my name*

Here's your very own scary blank page for sketching or writing your own haiku! So, it's not really that scary since we've put a few blank lines to help guide you, as well as a little sample to help inspire you—so write away! Write about what you saw, or felt, or listened to today and become a true Trail Poet and Haiku Explorer!
